Dear Sirs, I am opposed to any settlement with MS that does not allow full access by the customer to software of his choice, this would be like telling a person what brand of trailer he could tow on the end of his truck, and what kind of hitch he had to use. I also use plug in drives for different accounts, and do not have to have to repeatedly contact MS for reactivation. Also the open software movement, would be where Alexander Graham Bell, Thomas Edison, and Benjamin Franklin would be today.
